Moondog Digital Celebrates Five Years and is Now Google’s Top “CD Ripping Service”

Indianapolis, IN – November 7, 2008 – Moondog Digital started in 2004 from meager beginnings, but, after five years in the industry, the company is now the trusted name in “CD Ripping Services”, literally. Moondog Digital has recently been elevated in Google’s organic search to the highest ranked service company for people looking for “CD Ripping Services”.

“We will have a tough time dethroning the media websites for the top listing overall, but we are very excited to be the highest ranked service company,” said Craig Kelker, President of Moondog Digital. “In any service industry, our reputation is paramount. Anyone can buy Adwords Google rankings, but I couldn’t be happier to have earned this ranking with our reputation.”

Moondog Digital’s success stems from their long-term strategy of developing an enterprise-quality automation solution, partnering with industry-leading companies, and providing services for a multitude of industries and markets. With the recent merger with Double Century Software, Moondog Digital is solidifying the platform to which new services and projects will be added.
